Thomas Coxe Had 10 Sons

Answer to Query 386, J. L. G., September 28, 1930—Cary Cox was a descendant of Thomas Coxe, of Welsh ancestry. His ancestors having resisted the English king, their lands were confiscated. Thomas settled at Jamestown, Va., in 1614, and owned a fine estate on the James River. His 10 sons were: Ichabod, Sampson, Jesse, Asa, Cary, Rowan, Willia, Oran, Bartley and George. His father bought of a Dutch trader a negro man and wife, the latter losing her mind when her mate died of typhoid fever, and committed suicide after drowning the Coxe children. George, the youngest, was resuscitated. Three generations later one branch of the family moved to North Carolina. Still later this part of the family moved to Georgia. Part settled in Harris County and the others in Stewart County. Asa Cox was the father of Cary Cox, and Cary, the primitive Baptist preacher, had a son, Asa, who was the grandfather of J. A. Cox, of Tennessee. Ichabod Cox was a brother of Asa and grandfather of John B. Gordon. Asa lived to be 91, and Ichabod died at 95. I have a history of the Cox Family in America and can give help.—W.
